Stephanie Firestone ran a successful graphic design studio before returning to fine art. Her clients include Smithsonian Office of Public Affairs, National Air and Space Museum, American Red Cross NHQ, AMVETS NHQ, American Petroleum Institute, GEICO, and Promontory Financial Group, to name a few.

At first rediscovering clay via functional stoneware, she quickly recommenced sculpting the figure and is now working with mixed-media. She was selected to exhibit in the WPA Select 2014 Auction by Olivia Kohler-Maga, Assistant Director, Luther W. Brady Gallery at George Washington University, Washington, DC in 2014 and a catalog was produced. Her piece, "Nest" was included in a show in Germany and mentioned in a Washington Post review article. Her works are purchased by individuals and businesses and she has exhibited at galleries in southwest VA, Greensboro, NC, and the metro-DC area.

She exhibits with her late father's works - Peter Haikalis - whose subject matter is almost exclusively the human figure.
